NORDIC FOLK AND JAZZ

A long-time friendship and a profound love for folk music bind these two young jazz musicians from Hamburg, united in a duo dedicated to exploring the boundaries between Nordic folk tradition and jazz. Their arrangements of tunes from Scandinavia and the Celtic countries blend improvisational elements and harmonic diversions, while honouring the melody and expressiveness of traditional music.

Finn Stamer's experience and playful virtuosity on the violin craft the melodic landscape, while Martín Zamorano provides the foundation with his polyphonic approach and groove-oriented percussive sound. The duo's versatility is showcased through a range of different instrumentations, including the Hardanger fiddle, octave violin, prepared piano, and Rhodes. Their original compositions embody this versatility, spanning from intimate and meditative moments to bursts of ecstatic and affirmative vitality.
